NEW CHIC CREATION

Mrs. Merrit W Ireland, wife of Major General Ireland, surgeon genoral, of the army, wore a new chic creation at the dinner dance at the Chevy Chase club Wednesday night It was of heavy brocade, the chief colors being gold and sky blue. Unlike most of the new gowns the bodice was cut quite low, both back and front. The striking note was the skirt which barely escaped the ground skirt which barely escaped the ground and had all of the fullness caught right square in the middle of the front with a big buckle several inches below the waist line. Mrs. Maxwell Murray, wife of Major Murray, and daughter-in-law of General Arthur Murray, was in the same party and wore a quaint gown of black lace that swept the ground as she walked all around. There was a hoop about ill around. There was a hoop about Sten for the student the waist line. Unlike many of those gowns, the lining was just as long as the top skirt and was worn over the
